

DOUBLE DIPPING

Completion of a specific course that is required for the University Core or in a major, minor or concentration will fulfill any requirement of that same course in another category whether it be for University Core or a major, minor, or concentration. Additional credits are not required to substitute for a course that fulfills more than one category of requirements, so long as the student obtains the requisite credits for graduation. Double dipping Core courses with major/minor requirements is permitted. Double dipping in Core is not permitted except for distributions. Triple dipping is permitted only in cases where distributions are used to fulfill multiple requirements (courses, credits, or degree requirements).
